

HyperActive Technologies Collaborates with Torex Hospitality

Pittsburgh, PA – March 19, 2007 - HyperActive Technologies and Torex Hospitality, a provider of strategic IT solutions to the restaurant, retail and hospitality industries, have signed a teaming agreement that will create a collaborative effort between the two organizations.

“Torex Hospitality is an industry leading provider of technology solutions to the global restaurant and pubs industries, and this partnership enables us to provide our customers with incomparable solutions to their technology needs. Working with Torex allows us to take advantage of its significant install base and marketplace momentum to further leverage HyperActive’s solution. We couldn’t be happier to be working with this industry leader” Said Joe Porfeli, CEO of HyperActive Technologies.

HyperActive Technologies is the company behind HyperActive Bob, the automated kitchen production manager that uses vision technologies, along with real-time demand to predict and issue cook commands to the crew in the kitchen. The real-time data is derived from the POS system.

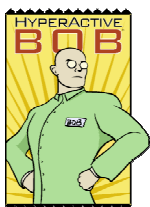

Torex Hospitality provides its award winning restaurant technology platforms to a number of segment leading clients, offering these operators a truly global solution with scale, extensibility and enterprise class management tools.

This teaming agreement will enable the two companies to work together to integrate with each other’s technologies, thereby providing a better total solution to the marketplace.

“We are very excited to be partnering with such an innovative presence in the quick service industry, and we look forward to jointly bringing exceptional solutions to the industry through this relationship.” said Keith Pascal, CEO of Torex Hospitality.
